Video games, online gaming, social media and all things electronic are here to stay with both positive and negative outcomes. How do we help children (and adults) cope with the ever-increasing culture of distraction? What can we do to counteract negative outcomes?

This presentation will explore what happens to our brains with the constant bombardment of distractions and provides concrete ideas on what parents and teachers can do to counteract negative outcomes. A “cheat sheet” will be provided for parents to take home, that will contain the key points of the presentation. Presented by Emi Garzitto on Thursday, May 25th at 6:30PM.

Dr. Emi Garzitto has been developing, promoting and implementing positive communication practices and conflict support skills for over 16 years. Her consulting practice (Creative Edge Consulting) brings her conflict support practices to both corporate and educational communities. For more information: olmf@rcav.org or jajasmins@gmail.com.
